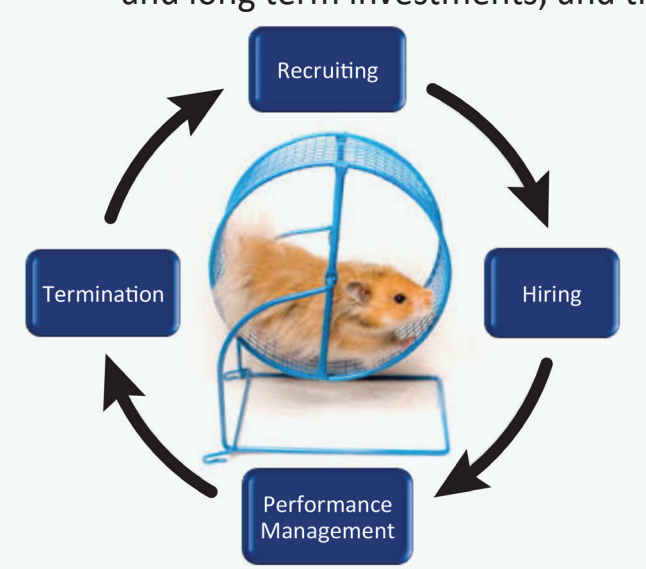
THE HIRING CONTINUUM™

Every company operates with 2 hiring models: Candidates we see as promotable and long term investments; and those there just to complete a task.



You and your team have hired great employees as well as difficult ones. What did you do differently?

If our current processes and hiring by our "gut" are so effective, why do we keep making mistakes?

Why do we accept mediocrity?

There is a reason the old Employee Lifecycle is shaped like a treadmill!

Moving from the treadmill to The Hiring Continuum™ is a mindset. The Company, not the employee, decides who gets hired. Identify candidates that can be "selected" multiple times throughout their progression with your organization. As the employee evolves, so does your company.

The new reality is that market share will be won in the competition for the best employees. – M. Colitti
